

Leadership and Parenting

What do children
see at the top?

Author Daniel W. Evans

With a background of construction, I am very familiar with foundations for building structures. As a minister, I am also familiar with spiritual foundations. The first being when God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit had a conversation and created a plan at the foundation of the world. Everything has a foundation. The foundation determines how well whatever you are building will not only remain, but continue to progress.

Foundational Levels of Leadership

No matter what example you use all levels of leadership progress from three levels. God, the individual and the family determines the effectiveness of all other levels.

Leadership through Parenting

Proper family leadership is the basis of community development, including the workplace.

Solid Foundations Promote Growth

Parents must be active and proactive in their children's lives applying good techniques in their parenting. This will greatly help children through those years of being easily influenced because of their own mental and emotional development.

Personal Growth has Its Value

The best way to add to the growth of a family or organization is to grow personally.
