"My profession is to me a ministry from God"

Author Daniel W. Evans

Doctor Crawford W. Long of Georgia

There are some awesome things revealed about our forefathers from this inscription taken from a marble monument in the Capitol Building in Washington, DC.

1. Creativity was very prevalent in our forefathers' day.
2. The fact that good creations that help mankind come from God was accepted by our forefathers.
3. Our forefathers recognized that there should be no difference between your work and your ministry.
4. Our forefathers acknowledged God in all things. (Proverbs 3:5-6)
5. Recognizing that our work or profession is a gift from God was a common practice of our forefathers. (Ecclesiastes 3:13)
6. Our forefathers did not experience fear or restrictions enacted for recognizing God.
7. Our forefathers were bold, shameless and fearless.
8. A desire to help others also existed among our forefathers.
9. Our forefathers trusted God even in their professional lives.
10. Our forefathers knew that they lived, moved about and had their being in Christ. (Acts 17:28)
11. Our forefathers realized that Church was not just a building, but was made up of believers who believed 24/7.
12. Our forefathers did not shut God out of their schools, courtrooms, the political arena or their homes.
13. Our forefathers imparted their faith in God into their patients, clients, customers, friends and family.

As believers in Christ, we have a great heritage to live up to. What do you see about yourself?
