Unchanging Laws

We will use the analogy of simple math to help simplify the process to success. One plus one will always be two and when you take two away from four, you will always end up with two. The laws of math like the laws to success should be simple. Making a plan and putting the right actions to the plan will surely bring success. If you set goals to achieve your plan and fulfill them one-by-one you will eventually succeed. It is not rocket science! You do not need to be the most educated, favored, best looking, or wealthiest person to reach success. You only need a plan and determination to fulfill the plan one goal, one step, one action, one day at a time. Many have given up on success in whatever area they were pressing into because they lost sight of the simplicity. Reaching forward one step at a time is far better than attempting to leap too far ahead and end up disappointing yourself by missing the mark. Slow movement allows the learning time needed to make sure every step is successful. The more successful steps you have the closer you get to fulfilling your dream of success.

One Person at a Time

What really makes a person successful? Let's face it. No one has gotten anywhere alone. It has been said that it takes money to be successful. It actually takes people to reach success. Forbes stated that a Carnegie Institute of Technology report says that 85% of your financial success is due to your personality and your ability to communicate. Only 15% is attributed to technical skill. You can't build a business or lead any organization without people. Family, friends, employees, volunteers, clients and consumers are made of people. One person at a time will help you reach success in your organization and in your community. A smile will go a long ways, but a kind word will win you a follower for life. Go and win you some people!
